Final Project: The 'Cantaloupe' News Website

Requirements:

Create a multi-page website that reports the 'finest fake news' around.

'Fake News', for our purposes, puts a fake spin on a real news story or it could be completely made up.

This project MUST be classroom friendly

This project can be similar to 'the Onion' website. You can use 'the Onion' as a reference and take a look at the site at: http://www.theonion.com/

You MUST include the following pages:

- Home (which MUST contain the current weather forecast in Dallas using Ajax)
  - Include at least 2 Top Story Headlines w/ at least 2 images/videos (1 for each)
- Sports
  - At least 2 sports as sub-categories
    - For each category (ex. Baseball, Basketball), create a fake article of a real sports story w/ at least 1 image/video for each sub-categories
- Local
  - At least 2 local news articles w/images or videos (at least 1 for each)
    - For each story, create a fake article of a real local news story with images/videos
- Entertainment
  - At least 2 stories w/images or videos
    - For each story, create a fake article of a real celebrity w/ at least 1 images/videos
- Science and/or Technology
  - At least 1 fake story on either science or technology w/ at least 1 image and video

MUST include the current date and current weather forecast using JavaScript/jQuery on your Home Page

     We will be using the free weather API from openweathermap.org, but you must sign-up for a free account to access your API key. Here is the address: https://openweathermap.org

MUST have at least 1 animated element using Animate.css

MUST have at least 1 Event Listener, using either JavaScript or jQuery, that does something when a user interacts with it
